Section III: EASTERN EUROPEAN THEATER

- 1 Russia: Germans claim limited gains in Kherson area; Soviets make slight progress SW of Kremenchug. Heavy fighting takes place in Cherkassy sector where Nazis counter-attack Red Army units attempting to extend the bridgeheads established across Dnepr R. On lower Pripet R., SE of Mozyr, Russians occupy Narovlya. Between Sozh and Dnepr rivers, Soviet forces continue drive toward RR junction of Zhlobin.
- 2 Russia: Soviet forces advance in areas SW of Kremenchug and along lower Pripet R.; near Cherkassy, however, Russians are constantly counterattacked by strong Nazi forces. NW of Gomel Red Army continues push toward Zhlobin, and Berlin reports heavy fighting W of Krichev and, for 2d successive day, W of Smolensk.
- 3 Russia: Red Army units capture Novogeorgievsk, W of Kremenchug, and several small towns in drive toward Znamenka; violent fighting continues in Cherkassy bridgehead where Nazis are determinedly opposing Soviet drive toward the RR line between Smela and Znamenka. NW of Gomel Russians make progress along RR line to Zhlobin, capturing Soltonovka. Germans again report strong Soviet attacks in Smolensk area but claim they are unsuccessful.
- 4 Russia: Berlin announces large-scale Soviet attacks with arty and tank support in Crimea and claims that these are repulsed with severe losses to the Russians. Fighting continues in Kremenchug and Cherkassy areas. In Gomel-Mogilev sector Soviets make gains in westward push toward the RR. Berlin again reports fierce fighting, during heavy snowfalls, W of Smolensk and claims that all Russian attacks are defeated. Germans also claim gains in attacks W of Nevel.
- 5 Russia: Berlin reports continued Soviet attacks NE of Kerch, in Crimea, and successful attacks by Rumanian forces against Russian positions S of Kerch. In Cherkassy sector, Axis forces with tank support continue attacks against Soviet bridgehead, while Berlin reports violent tank battles

SW of Kremenchug. Russians make slight gains in Gomel-Mogilev sector.

- 6 Russia: Berlin announces that Soviets attempting to land S of Kerch have been annihilated and relief attacks from NE of Kerch are frustrated. SW of Kremenchug Russians rush forward to capture Aleksandriya and to cut Smela-Znamenka RR line. Germans are attacking in force in Chernyakhov area, N of Zhitomir, and claim slight gains.
- 7 Russia: Red Army salient SW of Kremenchug considerably extended by capture of several small towns and RR station of Pantayevka, on line between Kremenchug and Kirovograd. W of Kiev, enemy drive between Korosten and Zhitomir appears to be successful as Moscow acknowledges loss of several inhabited localities.
- 8 Russia: Soviet offensive SW of Kremenchug gathers momentum as Moscow announces capture of Novaya Praga and several other towns and cutting of Znamenka-Krivoi Rog and Znamenka-Nikolayev RRs at Sharovka. Despite Red Army resistance, Nazis push forward NE of Zhitomir, in what may develop into a serious threat to Russian possession of Kiev. Enemy reports unsuccessful Russian attacks NW of Gomel.
- 9 Russia: Berlin reports slight gains by German shock troops near Kerch. Soviets advance toward Kirovograd and Krivoi Rog in drive SW and S of Kremenchug; RR junction of Znamenka captured after 3 days of severe fighting. NW of Chernyakhov Nazis continue to hammer at Kiev bulge and claim gains, although acknowledging that Soviet resistance is stiffening.
- 10 Russia: Berlin announces slight gains near Kerch and frustration of further Soviet landing attempts. Russians push on toward Kirovograd; heavy fighting continues in Cherkassy area. Enemy forces claim slight gains S of Malin, in Zhitomir-Korosten sector where large scale tank battles are being waged.

- 11 Russia: Although Moscow has announced no major activity in Crimea, Germans continue to claim improvement of their positions near Kerch and frustration of Russian attempts to land. Red Army continues drive toward Kirovograd and captures a district center of the province, Novogorodka. Nazi troops appear to have checked Soviets in Cherkassy area and to be making gains in Zhitomir-Korosten sector.
- 12 Russia: Russians drive on toward Kirovograd in what appears to be a pincers movement, capturing Dolino-Kamenka I, N of the city, and Novoayandeyevka, SE of Kirovograd, SE of Cherkassy and Smela, Buzhin and Chigirin are occupied by Red forces, which repulse enemy counterattacks. In Kiev bulge Soviets attack with great force to check enemy drive; Moscow claims slight gains S and SW of Malin as a result.
- 13 Russia: Soviets make slow progress toward Kirovograd and W of Kremenchug; violent, fluctuating fighting continues W of Kiev where Moscow claims improvement of Soviet positions S of Malin. Germans report that they have cleared Red forces from W bank of Teterev R. Berlin announces Soviet attack S of Nevel and admits local penetrations of their line.
- 14 Russia: After prolonged and severe fighting Soviet troops capture Cherkassy, enemy stronghold on R bank of Dnepr R. This gain counterbalanced by withdrawals in Zhitomir-Korosten sector where Russians retreat from Radomyshl. Berlin announces expected Soviet tank and inf attack SW of Zhlobin and increased pressure S of Nevel.
- 15 Russia: Enemy again reports unsuccessful Russian attacks against Nazi bridgehead E of Dnepr in Kherson area. Soviets advance SE and S of Cherkassy, capturing Belozerye on Cherkassy-Smela RR line; Germans report successful counterattacks in Kirovograd area. Fierce fighting continues S of Malin where Soviets claim slight improvement of their positions. Berlin announces Russian attacks on lower Pripet R., near Zhlobin, and S of Nevel where Red Army forces appear to have launched an offensive to broaden their salient N of Vitebsk.

- 16 Russia: Red forces again attack enemy bridgehead at Kherson; in Kirovograd area German counterattacks delay Russian progress; Soviets make slight gains S and SE of Cherkassy. The see-saw battle in Malin area continues although scale of fighting seems to have lessened. Berlin reports renewed Soviet attempts to gain control of upper Dnepr region between Mogilev and Gomel. In Nevel area Red Army extends its attacks W and NW of the town and enemy reports heavy defensive fighting by Nazi troops.
- 17 Russia: Soviet attacks against Kherson bridgehead continue, although Germans claim they are repulsed. Nazis determinedly oppose Soviet attacks in Kirovograd sector and it appears that they will attempt to prevent further penetration of their positions in Dnepr Bend. Russians are unsuccessfully trying to advance toward Zhlobin and in area W of Krichev, according to Berlin. Red Army offensive in Nevel sector is apparently successful although Moscow has, as yet, not admitted any major engagements on the central front.
- 18 Russia: Berlin claims fresh Russian thrusts against Kherson positions are unsuccessful; fluctuating fighting continues in Kirovograd area. Enemy reports fierce battles on central front, S and NW of Nevel.
- 19 Russia: Soviet attacks in Kherson-Nikopol sector are again unsuccessful, according to Berlin; stiff fighting continues in vicinity of Kirovograd. Moscow announces that Red Army troops have been on the offensive in Nevel sector for 5 days and have liberated over 500 places; gains made along Nevel-Vitebsk RR where Yezerishche and Bychizkha are captured.

- 20 Russia: Nazis assert Russians are attacking near Nikopol and SW of Dnepropetrovsk; indecisive fighting continues in Kirovograd and Korosten sectors. Soviets gain S of Nevel, capturing several towns including Privalni and Kozhnyaki; Berlin also reports that Red Army units are attempting to advance in area E of Vitebsk.
- 21 Russia: Moscow announces liquidation of enemy on E bank of Dnepr opposite Kherson; Germans claim gains SE of Kirovograd. Battles are again raging in Zhitomir and Zhlobin sectors; both sides reporting strong attacks and counterattacks with no decisive result. Red Army menaces Vitebsk as troops push S from Nevel, seizing Roslyaki, on RR, Gribali, about 20 mi. N of the city, and Kozlovichi, to the NE.
- 22 Russia: Enemy claims repulse of Soviet thrusts in Nikopol area and gains SE of Kirovograd although Moscow reports frustration of Axis attacks here. Russian attacks in Zhitomir sector meet strong opposition; fluctuating fighting continues NW of Gomel. Red Army makes further gains in drive on Vitebsk; Nazis report fighting E of the city.
- 23 Russia: According to Berlin Soviets again attack unsuccessfully in Nikopol area and Nazi forces gain SE of Kirovograd. Fighting continues in Zhitomir-Korosten sector and heavy Axis attacks in Rechitsa-Zhlobin area are reported. Reds make slight gains toward Vitebsk.
- 24 Russia: Soviet inf and tanks in great force open drive to regain control of RR junctions W of Kiev; Berlin reports violent and fluctuating fighting E of Zhitomir which is probably Red Army's 1st objective. Nazis press attack between Rechitsa and Zhlobin; Russians continue push on town from NE. Soviets carry out flanking movement N of Vitebsk and, overcoming elaborate enemy defenses, seize Gorodok, NW of the city; other units continue advance from SE and NE.

Section III: EASTERN EUROPEAN THEATER

- 25 Russia: Unsuccessful Russian attacks against Nikopol bridgehead and SW of Dnepropetrovsk again reported by Berlin. Large Soviet forces hammer at German positions E of Zhitomir and enemy admits penetration by "numerically superior forces." Nazi attacks SW of Zhlobin continue; Berlin claims repulse of a Red Army attack just SE of Mogilev. Extending movement NW of Vitebsk, Soviets cut Vitebsk-Polotsk highway and capture several small towns.
- 26 Russia: Moscow announces that Red Army in Zhitomir sector has, in 3 days of fighting, broken through enemy lines on approximately a 50-mi. front; NW and SW of Fastov, district centers of Brusilov and Kornin are occupied; Radomyshl, NE of Zhitomir, seized and gains made SW of the city toward RR junctions of Berdichev and Kazatin in what may develop as menace to Zhmerinka; in this area Verbov and Popelnya captured. Enemy again claims gains NW of Rechitsa although acknowledging stubborn opposition. Soviets approach closer to Vitebsk from 3 directions; to the SE RR station of Krynki taken; just E of the city Stabrovo occupied; on NW Belyanki captured and Vitebsk-Polotsk RR seriously threatened.
- 27 Russia: Fighting continues in Kirovograd area. Red Army races on SE of Zhitomir, capturing Yakhny, Vcheraishche, Andrushovka, Zabara, and Ivnitsa; forces pushing W from Radomyshl capture Glinenka. Farther N, Vitebsk gravely threatened by Soviets who capture Lushchikha, to the NE, and W of the town, cut Polotsk-Vitebsk RR near Dvorishche; gains also reported SE of Vitebsk.
- 28 Russia: Nazis claim gains N of Kirovograd, although Moscow denies any penetration of Soviet positions. Russian offensive rolls on toward Zhitomir; units pushing SW of Fastov toward Berdichev capture Moissevka and Nekhvoroshch; troops NE of Zhitomir cross Teterev R. to seize Korostyshev. Farther N another force approaches Korosten with capture of Bekhi, N of the city, and Zlobicni, just SE of it. Axis troops appear to be offering stiffened resistance to Red Army in Vitebsk sector and their counterattacks limit Soviet progress.

Section III: EASTERN EUROPEAN THEATER

- 29 Russia: Germans continue attacks N of Kirovograd. Soviet troops attack in Dnepr Bend W of Zaporodzhie to clear Axis from W bank of the river; several localities, including Kantserovka and Novofedorvka, both slightly NW of Zaporodzhie, occupied. SW of Kiev Red Army pushes on toward cutting of enemy RRs through Dnepr Bend; E and NE of Kazatin and Berdichev, Skvira, Belopolye, Vernigorodok, and Krasovka occupied. Chernyakhov and Levkov, just N and S of Zhitomir, seized while another force overwhelms enemy resistance in Korosten and pushes S, SW, and NW of the city to Kropivnya, Ushomir, and Kupishche. Moscow reports slight gains around Vitebsk although Berlin claims Nazi resistance is checking Soviet drive.
- 30 Russia: Soviets advance W and NW of Zaporodzhie to capture Tomakovka and Chumaki as well as several RR stations. Berlin announces that, after 4 days of heavy fighting in Kirovograd sector, gaps in their line are closed. Russian force heading in Zhmerinka direction seizes RR junction of Kazatin. Red Army troops push around Zhitomir to the NW and capture Chervonnoarmeisk; advancing NW of Korosten other forces take Luginy. Fighting rages in Vitebsk sector where Nazis are determinedly protecting this vital junction.
- 31 Russia: Red Army surges forward on all sectors of the front, making gains W of Zaporodzhie, NW of Korosten, and W of Mnevel. Zhitomir seized by Russians for 2d time in 2 months after fierce and prolonged fighting. Orsha-Vitebsk highway, parallel to the RR, cut by Soviet troops, despite serious enemy counterattacks in the area.
